

Deepak
Mahurkar

Deepak Mahurkar is a Mechanical Engineer, and PG in Finance and Marine Engineering. He is a partner at PwC India offering Management Consulting services to the Indian and global Energy sector. He leads the Oil & Gas industry practice of the firm.

Starting his career with the Indian Navy as a Short Service Commissioned Engineer officer, during the 32 years, he has been associated with the petroleum, distributed power generation, utilities and marine industries. He has been on committees of the chambers, the Gol and Government of Gujarat.

He has worked for creating attractive investment regimes, managing business entry, turning businesses sustainable and improving business performances. His clients include private and public companies, government bodies and industry associations.

He has been part of investors' road shows, industry consultations and advocacy meetings. He often moderates strategy sessions of clients in oil & gas companies. He contributes to public consultation and debate through articles in international and national print media, and through local industry journals. He participates in visual media debates. His thought leadership is also reflected in the publications of PwC.